About Us

Theatrical Suppliers since 1840

Since 1840 Brodie & Middleton have been supplying traditional scenic materials to London's theatres from our shop in Covent Garden. Today we remain in the heart of Theatreland and maintain close relationships with the theatrical trade.

Our popularity with scenic artists, interior decorators and painters comes from the unique range of traditional and modern materials available at our Drury Lane store and the specialist advice we can offer. In addition to theatres, we supply the general public, schools, colleges, universities, museums and theatrical societies in the UK and around the world. Brodies have specialised in supplying the trade with its needs since the early part of the 19th Century. For many years Brodie & Middleton was based on Long Acre and today our shop is a few minutes down the road on Drury Lane. Although times have changed we still hold a range of materials that a nineteenth century scenery painter would recognise.

Brodie & Middleton supply a wide range of products suitable for use in theatres and associated applications. We source products from around the world and select items specifically with the theatrical user in mind. In addition, Brodie & Middleton own-brand products have been developed specifically for theatrical use and many are manufactured at our north London factory. In addition to these we stock high quality ranges of artist's acrylic and oil paints as well as all sorts of painting paraphernalia from paint stirrers to conservation grade varnishes.

Our customers tell us that they like the diversity of products we stock and the level of personal service we give. Our specialist staff have a wide knowledge of the products, their makeup and application. In addition the experience we have gained in the manufacture of materials has given us great expertise in the understanding of raw materials.
