Grison Recolour Shoe Dyes

These dyes, formerly known as Magix, are used widely in the theatre as a general purpose spray dye. Originally designed as a shoe dye, these sprays have proved ideal for colouring all kinds of leather, vinyl and textiles.

Use

Recolour Shoe Dye is an aerosol dye. Unlike normal spray paint, Recolour Shoe Dye colours fabric and leather without creating an appreciable paint film. The dye sinks into the material leaving it flexible and smooth. The sprays are best suited to taking down and aging objects.

For changing the colour of leather goods completely, first strip away any coating with acetone. Then dye the leather with a liquid dye. The leather should then be sprayed with Recolour Shoe Dye to give a final even coat of colour.

Recolour Shoe Dye are designed for colouring shoes. As a result there is a large range of browns and a restricted palette of other colours.
